The whole journey.

Not just the day.

Six days allow time to understand the tradition before race day, experience the wider celebrations and discover Caravaca at a slower pace. Exact visits, timing and availability are agreed in your proposal and follow the official programme.

1 MAY	Meet the tradition Discover the embroidery and Caballos a Pelo tradition. Requested peña, horse and artisan encounters depend on local agreement.
2 MAY	The Wine Horses race Understand the adorned horses and the race up the castle hill with cultural interpretation. No reserved viewing position is implied.
3 MAY	Caravaca beyond the race Explore the historic centre and the Vera Cruz celebrations, with space for regional food and conversation.
4 MAY	A taste of the region An agreed regional excursion or dining experience, shaped around your group and confirmed openings.
5 MAY	A considered departure A final morning and planned onward transfer. Participation in any final celebrations depends on the official programme and flight times.

The wider fiestas take place from 1 to 5 May; the Wine Horses race is on 2 May. UNESCO inscribed the Wine Horses tradition in 2020. This recognition applies to the cultural tradition, not to our tour or company.

For UK and US travel advisors: share your client profile, group size and preferred arrangements. We prepare a personalised written proposal covering availability, total price, applicable taxes, inclusions, payment and cancellation terms. Net rates, commission and responsibilities are discussed individually; none are promised by this brief.

International flights are separate. Room upgrades, drinks outside the agreed allowance, gratuities and optional extras must be defined in the proposal. A peña contribution does not itself confer VIP access; restricted visits or reserved viewing require express written confirmation.

Race day is loud and crowded, with steep streets and uneven ground. Discuss mobility and practical needs before booking. Guests do not ride or participate in the race. Multiple groups retain their own hosting and are not merged into one larger tour.
